Brighton Bank's Internet Newsletter

As summer begins to wind down and families prepare for a new school year, August is a great time to enjoy the final days of the season while also taking a moment to plan ahead. From preparing for upcoming school expenses to making the most of local community events, there are plenty of opportunities to connect, prepare, and make this month a successful one.

At Brighton Bank, we believe financial wellness starts with small, intentional steps. Whether you're creating a back-to-school budget, reviewing your spending habits, or exploring financial tools that support your goals, planning ahead can help bring confidence and peace of mind throughout the year.

August is also a reminder of the importance of taking care of the communities we call home. As Utah continues to grow, protecting valuable resources like water and staying engaged with local events helps strengthen the neighborhoods where we live and work.

In this month's newsletter, you'll find helpful tips, community updates, and resources designed to keep you informed and connected. We hope you enjoy these highlights and take advantage of the many opportunities our local communities have to offer.

Calendar Items

Before summer comes to an end, take some time to enjoy the many family-friendly activities happening throughout our community. August brings opportunities to support local events, explore Utah's parks, enjoy outdoor entertainment, and spend quality time with those who matter most.

A few ideas to add to your calendar:

- Visit a local farmers market and support Utah businesses
- Enjoy an outdoor concert or movie in the park
- Explore one of Salt Lake County's many parks and recreation activities
- Attend a local festival and experience the arts, food, and culture our communities have to offer

Every Drop Counts

With Utah's hot summer weather continuing through August, it's a great time to be mindful of water use. Simple habits—like watering your lawn in the early morning or evening to reduce evaporation and fixing small leaks promptly—can make a meaningful difference in conserving one of Utah's most valuable resources.

The Utah Division of Water Resources recently released the 2026 State Water Plan Draft, which outlines strategies for meeting Utah's future water needs.

Back-to-School Budgeting Tips

As students head back to school, now is a great time to review your family's budget and plan ahead for upcoming expenses. Between school supplies, clothing, extracurricular activities, technology needs, and lunches, back-to-school costs can add up quickly. Creating a list of essentials, setting a spending limit, and prioritizing the items your family needs most can help make the transition into a new school year smoother. Consider reviewing your

"The State Water Plan is more than a document—it is a roadmap that helps align state, local, and individual efforts to address Utah's evolving water needs. By planning ahead, we can build on our strengths and prepare for future challenges," said Stephanie McGinnis, State Water Plan Manager at the Division of Water Resources.
